(Most artists never find out)

You've got a catalogue. Somewhere in it there might be a song that could change everything.

Most artists never find out which one. They back the track they love, spend what they can afford, and hope. When it doesn't work they've got no idea whether it was the song, the audience or the ads. So they do the same thing on the next release, starting from zero again.

We test up to 12 of your songs.

At the end of three months you'll know whether you've got a song that can scale your career, and exactly what it costs to push it.

If you haven't got one yet, we'll tell you that too, and why.

We'll tell you if it's not working.

Plenty of agencies will spend your money for as long as you'll keep giving it to them. We won't.

If a song isn't converting, we say so and move to the next one. That's the whole point of testing 12 of them.

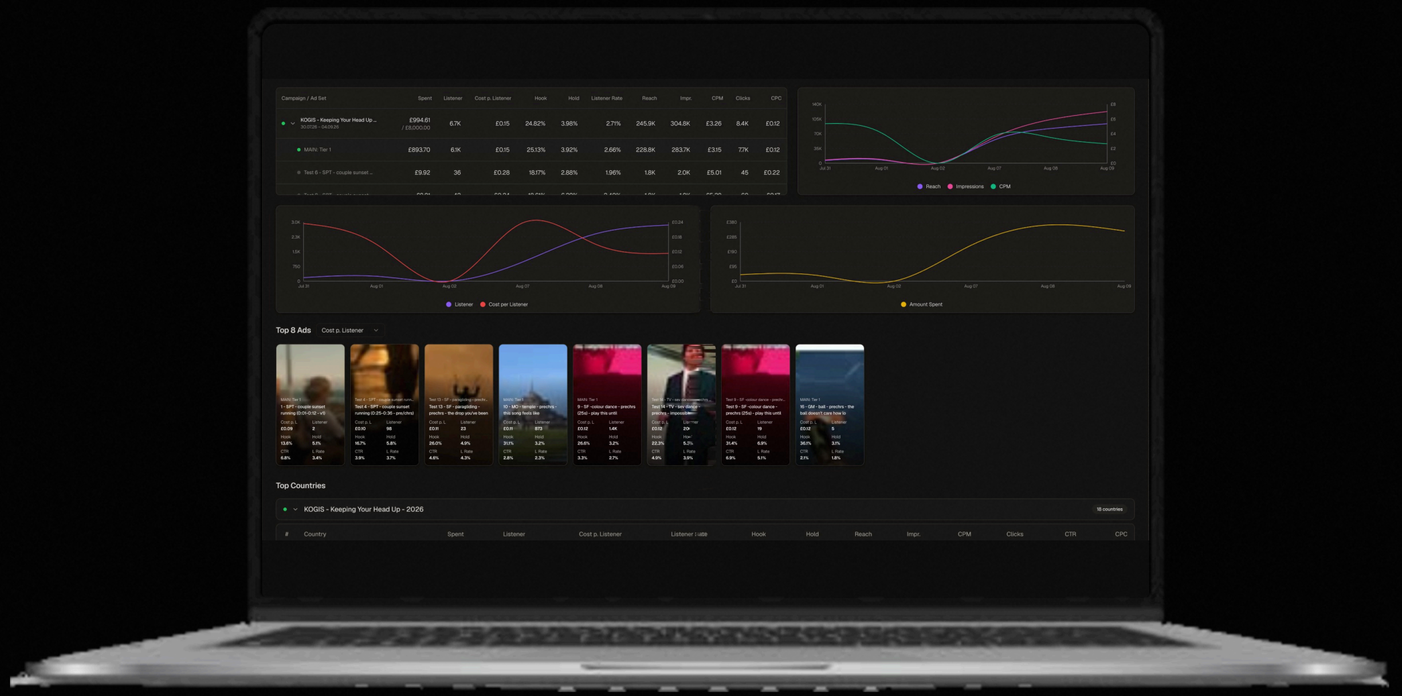

You're not paying us to be optimistic. You're paying us for an answer.

When we find your song

We put it everywhere it converts.

A song that works on one platform rarely stops there. Once the tests tell us what's landing, we take the winning creative and put budget behind it across every channel that can turn a listener into a fan.

SCALE IT

20% on ad spend above $5,000 a month. We push as hard as the data says we should.

GROW IT

$2,500 a month, or $6,000 for three months. YouTube and TikTok, plus we build your fan capture flow.

Ads rent your listeners. A fan capture flow means you own the audience instead.
