DAVID.

The promoter, the ticketing and the marketing — and we only make money when your show sells.

WHERE THE MONEY GOES

Half the room. All the fees. None of the data.

The people who promote and ticket your shows get paid whether or not the seats sell.

Your fans are charged

25%+

Booking fees on top of face value, then dynamic pricing on top of that. Your name is on the ticket.

Your settlement is padded

Towels.

Riders, reps and line items you never asked for, marked up and unremovable.

Your fans aren't yours

Not yours.

You built the audience. The promoter keeps the list, and you rent it back every tour.

Your marketing is a decade old

2015

A budget fixed before you went on sale, spent on targeting built years ago, measured by nobody.

And then the show goes up half empty. Nobody loses money on that except you.

THE PROOF

When tours stop selling, their teams already call us.

RULES · EUROPEAN TOUR 2026

91% sell-through

Five weeks out. Sales flat.

4 OF 5 SHOWS SOLD OUT · £2.55 A TICKET

ADMT · UK TOUR 2025

92% sell-through

Ten cities across the UK.

3,522 TICKETS SOLD · £2.59 A TICKET

Both were Live Nation and AEG tours that had stopped selling. The artists' teams brought us in. Tours sit at 4–27% sold when our campaigns switch on — those are the numbers after.

THE DEAL

Our only cut of your revenue is 7% of gross.

STEP 01

Your fan pays face +13%

The fee sits on top of the ticket — against 25%+ elsewhere — and it funds the marketing that fills the room.

STEP 02

Costs come off at actuals

Receipted, zero markup. Optional lines are your call. No towels.

STEP 03

We take 7% of gross

That is it. No profit split, no back end, no hidden spend.

STEP 04

The rest is yours

Weekly payouts from real sales, and an itemised settlement within seven days.

The old deal: pad the costs first, then take around 20% of whatever survives.

If you're the agent, nothing changes for you. You keep the client and you keep your commission. We replace the promoter, not you.

THE MARKETING

We put three to six times more behind your ticket.

A promoter will tell you their marketing is cheaper per ticket. It is — because there is barely any of it, and it goes out against targeting built years ago.

We commit up to 30% of the ticket price to selling the show, and we come in at under half of what we committed. The gap goes back to you.

HOW IT SELLS

Your own audience data, pointed at your own tour.

We route it

We connect your streaming, your socials and everyone who has ever bought a ticket, and we route the tour to the cities that data points at — not to the rooms a promoter happens to hold.

We sell it

Creative, targeting and budget set city by city and driven to the cost of a ticket actually sold. One campaign across every market: a winning ad in Glasgow is live in Paris the next morning.

It compounds

Every buyer is yours and stays yours. This tour's audience is the reason next tour's tickets are the cheapest you have ever sold.

One point of contact for all of Europe. Venue contracting, advancing, withholding tax, settlement and marketing all sit behind the same person.

YOUR AUDIENCE

You keep every fan who buys a ticket.

Name, email, city, what they bought and when. Yours, exportable, on every show — and it is not a favour, it is in the contract.

No incumbent will match this, and it is not because they have not thought of it. That list is the asset their next negotiation with you rests on.

NEXT

Send us the routing.

Dates you are holding, or dates you want. We will come back with the rooms the data points at, the spend we would commit and what the settlement looks like at both sold out and 80%.

You send

A routing, or a market you have never cracked and want to.

We come back

Rooms, spend and a modelled settlement. Within a week, no cost, no commitment.

You decide

If the numbers do not beat what is on the table, do not take it.
