THE BRIEF, IN ONE LINE

Someone in Europe on Ry's side of the table, pushing.

One person whose only artist on this record is Ry X. Holds the plan in every market, runs the media, builds the moments on the ground, reports every week.

WHAT IS ALREADY IN PLACE

A lot of good people, each with a lane.

None of this changes. What is missing is the person in the middle of it, on Ry's side — especially in Europe.

WHAT WE TAKE ON

Four things, November to March.

01

The plan, per market

US, Germany, the UK, Belgium. One plan, held in one place, between Red Light, Orchard and every partner. We do the chasing.

02

The media

Tested before it is spent, scaled while it works, reported on what a listener costs — not what a click costs.

03

The real world

In-stores, stripped-down radio, the close events. We find the rooms and the sponsor.

04

Pitching, when it counts

Through our network, for the record it is — alt-pop, not dance. No playlist is promised.

The same job we do on Elderbrook for Red Light, and did for Øneheart.

THE CAMPAIGN

Four releases, one album

2026 Sweat Strategies.

THE SHAPE OF IT

October to April.

29 OCTOBER

Lay

Out this week. The first read, through our channels.

19 NOVEMBER

The November single

Pre-save and vinyl pre-order open. The launch.

JANUARY

The third single

Scale what November found.

FEBRUARY

The album

12th, 19th or 25th — the vinyl decides.

APRIL

Europe on tour

Not ours. Every fan captured before then is a cheaper ticket.

One date sets the rest. The album lands when the vinyl does. Everything here is built to move a week either way.

RELEASE 01 OF 04

29 October

Lay

Already moving

The first number arrives before anyone has signed anything.

01

Our channels

Lay in front of warm audiences from tomorrow, the way we run Elderbrook.

02

A small spend

Enough to learn what a listener costs in the US, Germany, the UK and Belgium. Not enough to matter if the answer is no.

03

Credited

£250 plus 20% on spend. Comes off month one if the campaign goes ahead.

RELEASE 02 OF 04

19 November

The November single

Album pre-save and vinyl pre-order open

The launch. The first time the budget is spent knowing something.

Holy Water was working, and the ads had stopped before anyone could see it. This time the person watching is the person with their hand on the budget.

01

Test the record

Every section of the song against one visual, then cuts of the winner.

02

Scale what works

Cost per listener read daily, by market. Budget moves the same day.

03

Count the pre-save

The single is the way in. The album is what we count.

04

Make the asks

Rough Trade, Amoeba, a German store, the radio sessions. Booked months out, so they start now.

RELEASE 04 OF 04

February

The album

LA, New York, then Europe inside the week

The record lands with Ry in the room.

Ry wants to be out doing things this time. Red Light and Orchard US hold the American leg; we hold Europe, and hold the week together.

01

In-stores

Rough Trade, a German store through Orchard Germany, the two US dates in one route.

02

Stripped-down radio

KCRW and KEXP in the US. We find the European equivalents, early.

03

Spend to the week

Weighted around release in every market, then held for the fortnight after.

04

Capture at every door

Through the newsletter, Ry's way. No countdown.

Testing, not spending

2026 Sweat Strategies.

PAID MEDIA

What does a listener cost?

Cost per click is what Meta tells you. Cost per listener is what decides whether to spend more. We report it weekly, per cut and per market, and scale on it.

01

Find the sound

Every section of the song against the same visual. The part that holds is the part we build on.

02

Cut around it

Up to twenty-five visuals on the winner: film, the videos, Ry's own footage. Each market separately.

03

Both kinds of page

Ry's content on his pages. Ours on third-party pages that already have the audience.

04

Decide weekly

Go harder, or hold it for the next one. With the numbers, with you, the same day.

2026 Sweat Strategies.

THE REAL WORLD

The moments he already makes.

The sound baths and the close events are the most Ry X thing in the campaign. One in New York, one in Europe, a sponsor to pay for it, and the right people in the room.

01

The sponsor

Firebird's deck, Orchard Germany's brands team, our own relationships. One partner, run from one place.

02

The room

Built by people in Europe who do this well. Not a promoter's marketing budget.

03

What it leaves

Weeks of content, and the list of who came.

Nothing here asks Ry to sell. No drop, no countdown, no co-brand. The newsletter is the only call to action.

HOW WE WORK

One team, one weekly

Prepared for Red Light Management. Commercial in confidence.
2026 Sweat Strategies.

WHO DOES WHAT

Label people.

Peter Jarrett ACCOUNTABLE

A&R at Universal Publishing and Mercury, brand at 72andSunny, a label through The Orchard. Sets the strategy and is in the room for the decisions.

Product management

Pierre Hall

Bella Union, DFA Records, then senior product manager at Believe. Has done this job from inside the label.

Paid media

Tobi Steinborn

Co-founder. Runs the media behind Elderbrook, Ninja Tune and Better Noise.

A named day-to-day lead in week one. Peter accountable throughout.

2026 Sweat Strategies.

REPORTING

Every Monday, without being asked.

A written report and the dashboard open all week: spend, cost per listener by market, what Spotify did, where every partner is, and what needs a decision.

You never chase a number.

2026 Sweat Strategies.

FROM YOUR SIDE

Five things and we are running.

01

The vinyl date

It sets the album date and the February week.

02

The money route

The ad budget sits with Orchard. We invoice them for spend.

03

Access

Meta, Spotify for Artists, the videos, the newsletter. So Lay can start tomorrow.

04

One intro per partner

Orchard US and Germany, Shore Fire, Circa, Firebird. After that the chasing is ours.

05

An hour with Ry

Before anything is built.

Prepared for Red Light Management. Commercial in confidence.
2026 Sweat Strategies.

THE ENGAGEMENT · NOVEMBER TO MARCH

Five months, two ways to do it.

MONTHLY

£5,000 a month

Five payments, £25,000, invoiced monthly from 1 November.

UP FRONT

£20,000

The same five months, the fifth on us. The deal Øneheart took.

Media included. No 20% on ad spend on top.

On top, at cost: the ad spend itself, from Orchard's budget; event hard costs; any software. Lay starts tomorrow at £250 plus 20% on its spend, credited against month one.

Prepared for Red Light Management. Commercial in confidence.
2026 Sweat Strategies.

Lay is out tomorrow. The launch is three weeks away.

The quick start runs either way. If the rest looks right: Steve, then an hour with Ry, and we are in from 1 November.

01

Lay live through our channels, from tomorrow.

02

This goes to Steve, then to Ry.

03

An hour with Ry, and the vinyl date.

04

1 November: the November single in test, the February asks out.
